NIFTY OUTLOOK

Yesterday Nifty higher following firm global cues but failed to sustain initial gains as focus shifted to Union budget. The budget announcement failed to lift market sentiment and shaved off more than 177 points from day's high 5849.90 to close below 5700 levels at 5693.05 levels with loss of 103.85 points.

- ♦ The price action formed one of the largest bear candles in over nine months indicating the firm grip of bears in the present scenario.
- ◆ However, we observed Head & Shoulder pattern on daily chart along with downward gap created on February 21, 2013 (5937 5921), it indicates ongoing corrective process likely to extend further. The pattern itself by nature is bearish and target is placed at 5653 5645, it confluence with the 38.2% (5599) fibonacci retracement level from entire upmove from 4770 to 6112. Only a decisive daily close above 5981 would negate the pattern and will resume short term uptrend.
- ♦ Following the breakdown, the index is expected to ease off towards the 5500-5550 region being the confluence with The 200 day SMA for the index is currently placed at 5546. The November 2012 low is placed at 5548, the 161.8% Fibonacci extension of the first down leg from recent high of 6111 to 5853 is placed at 5555 levels. The upper band of the major rising gap area (5526-5547) formed in September 2012 is placed at 5526 region.
- ♦ Immediate pullback attempts will incur stiff resistance around the 5823—5850 area region as the key support earlier likely to reverse its role as resistance as per change of Polarity. And above this the last Thursday's falling gap area of 5921 - 5937 will be a strong supply area. The index has signaled violation of medium term positive structure following with a bearish crossover of 20 x 50 SMA, which is known as medium term "Death cross" suggest medium term bearish view. A break below the last two session's identical low of 5748 will see continuance of the downward momentum and head towards the 5550 region in the near term. The presence of the 200 SMA (5543) and the November 2012 low placed around 5550 makes this a support area.
- ♦ The Nifty has resistance at 5750 5780 and support placed at 5672 & 5645
